

DELIVERY PROCEDURES FOR COMMERCIAL MATERIAL & TRAFFIC INSTRUCTIONS

The Radio-Canada Traffic team wishes to accompany you in the success of your production and delivery of television commercials. Here are the steps to follow:

1. COMMERCIAL MATERIAL

Commercial material must meet our technical specifications for commercial messages intended for broadcast on all Radio-Canada television stations. As of September 1, 2014, all messages must be closed captioned. Material, traffic instructions and Telecaster approval should be made available 5 days prior to the first broadcast date whenever possible.

For more details: Technical specifications

2. TELECASTER APPROVAL

Radio-Canada requires Think TV (free) approval for all commercials airing on Radio-Canada owned and operated Television stations. All commercial material must have Telecaster approval prior to air date. It remains your best tool to ensure the legality of your message, which is your responsibility. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation reserves the right to require its legal compliance before broadcasting.

METADATA REQUIRED

Whether it is for sending you commercial materials or for sending your traffic instructions, the following information is needed:

- Advertiser: Client's name
- Title: Title or description of Commercial
- AdID: Explanation below
- Duration: The length of the commercial
- Telecaster # : Approval number

WHAT IS AN ADID / ISCI?

AdID (advertisement Identification) is a unique identification code associated with every single television commercial. This code is composed of a series of letters and numbers, and is given by the client / producer / agency. The AdID does not correspond to the spot title but the spot title can appear in the AdID. It is absolutely necessary that every commercial we receive also has an AdID. If your production house already uses a unique code to keep track of internal productions, you may use this code in the creation of your AdID. No special character is accepted (% , # , ? etc.).

At Radio-Canada, we accept an AdID with a maximum of 30 characters.
